1. Do you believe that the City and County of Denver must protect its perpetual open space conservation easement that covers the Park Hill Golf Course land and for which Denver taxpayers paid the Clayton Trust $2 million in 1997?

Yes

No

2. If the answer to Question No. 1 is "no", please explain your position regarding protection of this perpetual open space conservation easement.

3. The 155-acre Park Hill Golf Course land is the largest remaining undeveloped tract that potentially could be available to fill the park shortages in Denver. Would you support the potential acquisition of the Park Hill Golf Course land by the City and County of Denver for designation as a city park?

- Yes
- No

4. If the answer to Question No. 3 is "no", please explain your position regarding a potential acquisition by the City and County of Denver of the Park Hill Golf Course land for designation as a city park.

5. What vision do you have for the Park Hill Golf Course land?

Generally speaking, parks are important for environmental conservation but also for improving public health. Increasing the percentage of residents that live within a reasonable walking distance of a public park is a worthy undertaking. SOS has rightly identified that there's a lot more at stake here, though, something that really reflects the changes that have come to Denver---public lands belong to *us.* They're public goods, that everyone should enjoy.

I believe that SOS has the right idea, not only about thinking creatively on building on what's already there, but the urgent need to do so.
